REMINDER FOR YOUR DIARY

AGM

17th

OCTOBER

START @ 8.00pm

Voting paper for election of officers is inserted loose within this magazine.

Goats need fresh water at all times. They also benefit from a salt block. A mineral supplement formulated for goats should be provided (see references: Springbriar).

Goats need to be immunized annually for: C/D Tetanus and Rabies and receive a Selenium injection if living in a deficient area (the northeast). For the best of health, you should deworm your goats at least four times a year. The treatment I have come to like the best is "Eprinex", a pour-on antiparasitic available from Jeffers Supply. It controls both internal and external parasites, has no milk or meat withdrawal time, and is very convenient to administer. Ivermectin paste (available at feed store) is a good broad range wormer. These should be rotated with Fenbendazol paste to avoid resistance of the parasites. Pasture rotation is your best tool in parasite control.

Hooves must be trimmed as needed: the bottom should be flat without edges curling under. Scissors type garden pruning shears work well.

Goats are sociable, playful creatures. They enjoy gentle attention; do not play aggressively with them or they will become aggressive (if you rub their head playing butting games they will but you unpredictably). They especially enjoy a neck or chest rub. They enjoy climbing and jumping on rocks, stumps, and platforms made for their pleasure (and your entertainment).

When you bring your goat home, expect that it will be frightened and nervous until it gets used to its new home. It will probably be a bit noisy, may act shy, and will need TLC and reassurance that its new home is a safe, comfortable, happy place. It usually takes about a week to settle in. Don't chase your goat, let him/her come to you; it helps to offer a treat (handful of grain or veggie-fruit treat).

The Rosasharn herd is tested annually for Caprine Arthritic Encephalitis (CAE) and Johnnes Disease (as well as TB and Brucellosis): they are consistently negative. They do not have contagious abscesses (Caseous Lymphadenitis). These are the three most serious, deadly, contagious goat diseases. Beware of these when adding new goats (or other ruminants) to your heard.

A healthy goat appears contented, alert, has an appetite and chews its cud. Its coat is smooth and glossy, skin is clean and pliable. One can feel the ribs under the skin but bones do not appear to jut out. The manure consists of formed, slightly moist pellets which, with the urine should be passed without effort. The normal body temperature of a goat is 102-103F. The normal pulse is 70-80/minut

EDITOR

Thank you all for continuing to support the club if only by the subscription. A great deal of our club members have come out in their own time and supported the show secretaries in the setting up of the hurdles, gazebos, rings and tables etc. a big thank you to all.

Most members and exhibitors have had a successful year, firstly in the delivery of the kids, and the results they have achieved at all the shows attended.

I would like to invite pygmy goat owners to forward to me to put into the magazine, about the care of the rejected pygmy kid. How much milk would you feed it, when would you introduce them to food, what food etc, quantities are much different to caring for a dairy kid. I look forward to receiving some useful information and maybe some photos of hand rearing.

Entries to some shows this year have been higher, some lower than expected, some did experience absentees We did have an exhibitor who managed to beat the traffic jams, it was the closest call ever, they arrive, unload the respective goat, entered the ring and won. Defiantly worth her while entering and keeping calm with the traffic.

We have had a fine year though the takings at the shows has dropped, there just isn't the money to spend, hands stay in their pockets.

Our thoughts are with Sue Prior's partner and family after her passing in July, a friendly judge, a lovely person, very popular with all exhibitors.

We will be having new items on the public information table, come and have a look in 2016

see you all at the AGM,

Regards Hazel.

Sue Prior

For those of you who may not know, Sue Prior, a British Goat Society judge, suddenly passed away in July, while on holiday in Cornwall, a few days after judging Stithians Show. Sue was a strong supporter of goatkeeping, especially in the West Country, having judged our Male & Youngstock in 2011, and only last year she judged Okehampton Show. It was her wish to be buried at home on the farm in Cresswell, near Worksop and the funeral took place on 20th August. David her partner and her family, are planting a remembrance garden, and the CGA have sent a Darcey Bussell rose. Deep crimson, and fragrant, to be planted in the garden.

Welcome to the World of Nigerian Dwarf Goats

The Nigerian Dwarf is a minor breed, considered to be a dairy goat in miniature, and so to have the graceful, refined, proportions of the dairy goat at about 1/3 the size: Maximum height at the withers (high point of shoulder) for does: 22 1/2", bucks: 23 1/2".

The care of your Nigerian is similar to the care of other goats. Good management (selection, nutrition, parasite control, health care, housing and responsible breeding) is the foundation of your herd and this will determine the ultimate condition and confirmation of your stock. Goats are herd animals, so depend on the companionship of other goats. Two goats make a herd, as do a goat and a sheep, if raised together. A single goat is a miserable goat and will make you a miserable goat owner.

For their housing you must provide a barn, shed, or a large dog house so they can get out of rain, snow, wind and sun. You must provide a sturdy fence; the BEST fencing is four foot high by 16 foot long graduated livestock panels or "poultry/rabbit" fence with wrapped rather than welded corners is ideal and will last. As you think about fencing, remember that your goal is twofold: to keep your goats where you want them, and to protect them from dogs and coyotes who are their greatest threat. Never trust a dog or dogs with your goats! Dogs are predators—goats are prey.

The feeding requirements of your goats depends on their age and gender. As ruminants, they depend on a diet primarily of hay. Sweet smelling, non dusty, second cut grass or grass/legume hay is ideal for all and should be fed free choice.

Males are prone to developing kidney/urinary tract stones (calculi) so should be maintained on a low protein, low calcium diet. A mineral balance achieved with a goat-formula mineral supplement aids in the prevention of urinary calculi. I recommend feeding males limited grain once they are over 6 months to one year of age, augmented with a goat-formulated mineral supplement. Avoiding high protein feed supplements significantly reduces the risk of developing urinary calculi (blockage). You can give your wether or buck a vegi or fruit treat while the girls get their grain. (If you insist on feeding grain to (mature) males, use a "Lamb Finisher" pellet. These contain a urine acidifier, ammonium chloride, which helps prevent calculi and is the grain of choice; not more than 1/8-1/4 cup per day). If you've had a problem with UC you might try adding extra urine acidifiers.

Does benefit from alfalfa and/or increased grain -16 or 18% protein goat feed (ex. Caprine Challenger by Blue Seal) when pregnant or lactating. Mature non-breeding, animals may be maintained on a good quality hay alone. Kids are growing and benefit from a high protein diet. I strongly recommend feeding kids a starter pellet medicated with a coccidiostat for their first 6 months. It is also a good idea to have your vet check the stool for coccidia and other parasites regularly when your goats are young and annually when mature.

Goats enjoy a variety of extras: a salt block, fruit and vegetable scraps, baked goods in moderation, tree prunings (apple, pine, spruce, maple, willow...). Be careful to avoid mold! Goats are very susceptible to mold toxins. Avoid toxic plants!: Rhododendron, azalea, yew(looks like spruce but no scent), laurel, cherry... these can kill in very small doses. Never change the diet suddenly, always introduce new or extras in small quantities. If your goat over eats (gorges on grain) that which it is not accustomed, watch it carefully for signs of illness and be prepared to call the vet.

Male & Youngstock Show & Pygmy Autumn Show 2015

This year's show was held at Mays Country store and the sun shone all day!.... I thank Mays for allowing us to use their yard. There was plenty of parking space, a dry area if it had rained and water was available. Our judges were Mrs. Julia Clarke for the Pygmys and Mr. Martin Cox judged the Dairy entries. The main results are as follows.... ;-

Best in Show..Pygmy- Marshview Lennox owned by Sharon Davies.

Res B.I.S- Gallaine Sprite owned by Nigel Julian.

Best In Show..Dairy- Willowriver Sanchez owned by Rachel Norman.

Res B.I.S-Coppergon Jimbob owned by Helen Jarvis.

Well done to the four of you, some drove a long way to attend.

Martin said that he really enjoyed our show and thanked us for our hospitality.

The numbers of exhibitors was down on last year, we covered our cost and not a loss as formerly. I think that some of our previous exhibitors were not able to get to the show because of the date and the fact that it was on a Saturday. May's don't open on a Sunday, thus the change of day. Next year we may look for another venue so that we can return to a Sunday show. The date will be dependent on the dates of other shows, in the area.

I would like to thank our two judges, all the stewards who helped on the day, whether in the ring or calling, or helping to set-up, or table duties or just others helping to show the exhibitors' goats. New people were shown how to judge and I think even how to trim goats' feet-thank you to those who showed such care to others!

We are a club who prides ourselves on being friends, so THANK YOU.

Show Secretary....Sheila.

Secretary's Notes.

Dennis our Editor is “badgering” me (If you will excuse the pun) to send in my Autumn “Secretary's Notes” for the Cloven Hoof. I often seem to vie with Sheila to be the last to submit our contributions. This time I gather she has beaten me to it, even though she is now back in the Gambia.

I took a blank sheet of paper with me on a six hour train trip to London recently, awaiting inspiration. That same piece of paper returned to Penzance without even a scribble or a bullet point to help me get started on my piece. Inspiration eluded me I'm afraid.

Now the dead-line is upon me and guilt is spurring me on. I think of Dennis, who works on behalf of the club, month after month, organising our magazine, with its photos and articles. He does a great job, keeping us all informed and entertained.

The least I can do is give him something to enter under “Secretary's Notes”. Sometimes it's only a few sentences that I give him, which he prints using a huge font trying to fill the allocated space! Other times, my contribution seems to flow and almost writes itself, so he has to squeeze it into the A5 space.

This time I will just end with a tribute to Sue Prior, who I met when she judged the dairy section of Stithian's Show this year. I didn't know her personally but she seemed a fun loving, positive person who will be greatly missed by family, friends and the goatkeeping fraternity. It was such a shock to lose a person who was enjoying life and seemed in the best of health. How sad her life was cut short so abruptly.

On behalf of the Cornwall Goatkeeping Association, sympathy is extended to her family. She will live on in our memory.

Goat Breeds LaMancha

This breed is thought to have descended from Spanish goats brought by early settlers to California.

The LaMancha dairy goat is born with its unique small ears. In fact, that is the distinguishing feature of this breed. The breed has excellent dairy temperament and is an all-around sturdy animal that can withstand a great deal of hardship and still produce. The LaMancha is a dependable dairy goat, producing quality milk with high butterfat and protein over a long period of time. One of the advantages to the LaMancha breed is they can be milked for two years without being freshened.

The LaMancha also has a very positive disposition. It is inquisitive and loveable, easygoing and cooperative.

The LaMancha face is straight. The ears are the distinctive breed feature. There are two types of LaMancha ears -- the gopher ear and the elf ear. In does, one type of ear has no advantage over the other. The maximum length of the gopher ear is approximately one inch (2.54 centimeters), or there may be very little ear, with little or no cartilage. The end of the ear must be turned up or down. This is the only type of ear which will make a buck eligible for registration. The elf ear has an approximate maximum length of two inches (5.08 centimeters). The end of the ear must be turned up or turned down and cartilage shaping the small ear is allowed.

President's Contribution..

Hello and welcome to the on-coming Autumn, or perhaps because of the summer, there may be some nice weather ahead? I hope that you have managed to enjoy the summer that we have had, with your goats and family, or whatever you have done. You can always consider writing to our editor to tell us about your exploits or just your summer. We are privileged to live in a very beautiful part of our country, so please do tell us.

The shows this year have all gone well. I give thanks on, my behalf and yours, to all the show secretaries, stewards, exhibitors and helpers for continuing with our shows, and also for the visitors who have shown their interest. It's never an easy job but most rewarding when all the 'problems' have been ironed out and it's part of the work of our club. Goats are so beneficial to us and we, your club, take every opportunity to show this to those who ask. We were able to 'show, how to show' this year to a few who asked.

Those of you who do show...have you had any trouble getting hold of the Movement Forms needed? Some have advised that it has not been easy to access these forms. I'm not sure if these difficulties are/were local or widespread. Again please let us know. Transport to shows has not been easy, either, this year, so thank you to those who endured massive hold-ups on our roads, especially on the A30.... It is with sadness that I tell you, of a dear goat keeping friend of mine, Mrs. Sue Prior, who came to stay with me, either side of Stithians Show. Sue was taken ill two days after she enjoyed judging at Stithians. Sadly, she died here in hospital in Cornwall. Her family have found this unexpected news hard to take, as you would expect and I too mourn the loss of my friend. She was much respected as a goat keeper and especially as a judge. The goat fraternity will miss her greatly as will all of her family and friends. I pray that her partner Dave, her daughter Ebony and her whole family may find peace during this very difficult time, as they re-sort their lives without dear Sue.

I thank local goat- keeper, Vicky Hardy for helping the family at this time. Sue's funeral was Wednesday 17th and she is now laid to rest at her dearly loved home near Worksop.

Our AGM is 17th. October and I look forward to seeing you then. Do please try to attend and offer your suggestions. We are grateful for offers of tea/coffee, food and a raffle prize. This is a good social time, without our goats.....

Sheila.

Goat's cheese pasta salad with toasted almonds

Pasta is a particularly good vehicle for a goat's cheese salad, and this one has exactly the right amount of crunch and freshness.

Serves 4

4 plum tomatoes, cut into quarters
2 tbsp olive oil, plus extra for the pasta
40g flaked almonds, toasted until lightly golden
Salt and black pepper
250g conchiglie pasta
150g goat's cheese, preferably with a skin
80g rocket, chopped twice
A good squeeze of lemon juice (about 1/2 a lemon)
2 tbsp finely grated parmesan

1 Preheat the oven to 180C/350F/gas mark 4. Put the tomatoes skin-side down on a lightly oiled baking tray. Season with salt and drizzle with 2 tbsp of the olive oil. Pop in the oven for around 30 minutes, on the middle shelf.
2 Bring a big pot of heavily salted water to the boil. Add a good splash of olive oil, and tip in the pasta, stirring immediately. Boil according to pack instructions.

3 Drain and allow to cool for 5 minutes – do not run the pasta under cold water. Add another glug of olive oil to make sure the pasta doesn't stick together as it cools.

4 Put the warm pasta into a big mixing bowl and crumble over the goat's cheese. Gently roll and turn around with a wooden spoon until all the cheese is melted and every surface of the pasta is coated.

5 Check the seasoning – plenty of salt and pepper needed for this one – then as soon as the tomatoes are ready, fold these, rocket and almonds into the pasta.

6 Once it's cooled a bit, it may all start looking a bit tight, but a couple of tablespoons of warm water will restore the creaminess. Finish with the lemon juice, a firm hand on the pepper grinder, a splash of your best extra virgin olive oil, more salt if necessary and some parmesan on top

Whipped goat's cheese

Sometimes the simplest ideas are the most arresting, in looks and flavour, as in this whipped-up froth of the creamiest of cheeses – fresh and sharp in equal parts – served with shards of crispbread and crunchy blushing radishes.

Serves 4

250g fresh goat's cheese

1½ tbsp olive oil

To serve

6 large radishes

Crispbread crackers, or toasted pumpernickel or rye bread

1 Whip the goat's cheese and oil by hand, or in a mixer on high speed for 2 minutes, until fully incorporated.

2 Serve with the crackers or toasted bread and radishes.

Camborne Show 2015

Thank you all who helped CGA to put on this fun show once again! For those who have not been to Camborne Show, it is getting to be a bigger Agricultural show, it caters to a different group of people....

Camborne Show Committee are very generous with all that they give us, and allow us carte— blanche to do as we please! All they ask is that we can muster and give the public a chance to get up close to the goats. Something which is not always possible with bigger BGS regulated shows. We can put on a class on the day if needed, children can ask to lead a goat and we can lend a goat to those who want to have a go at showing. We do milking demonstrations and have hands on milking for those who want to try. Usually we have free samples of chilled milk to take home to try.

This year our judge was the very able Brian Coombe, who did a wonderful job with the Dairy goats..... milking Boscadjack Rozel BIS (she made BoB at Stithians) so he really does know his dairy girls as well as his Pygmy goats. The committee of the CGA were out in force to ensure all went well.... Which it did... and everyone helped to take down the pens afterwards..Must say at this point, that on the Thursday before, committee, and retired committee, were there to help putting up the pens, and believe you me, it is harder putting them up than taking them down!!!!
Thank you again to all who ensured that it went well.

I wish to thank everyone for their help during Stithians 2015, it went a lot better than last year with no problems, accidents or injuries to either exhibitors or goats.

Its a pity the weather wasn't better but I believe everyone still enjoyed themselves on the day.

I also wish to say of the sadness felt by myself and family and also Dairy Exhibitors on the sudden and untimely death of a lovely judge, Sue Prior. Our thoughts are with her partner, Dave.

Thanks again, look forward to seeing you next year.

Linda Dodd.
